Y., Susan Howes Look, dau. of Samuel and Polly (Loomis) Look. She was b. Oct. 27, 1817, at Conway, Mass. He was graduated from Union College in 1822; studied law and was admitted to the bar in New York City. His early experience on his father's farm had convinced him that the plow then in use could be much improved and he turned his attention in that direction. His first business venture was at Clarksville, Va., where, in connection with Caleb H. Richmond, he built a foundry for the manufacture of plows. Failing to secure the renewal of their lease, they moved their establishment to Milton, N. C., and later settled at Meadville, Va. In 1842, Mr. Avery became the executor of his father's estate, terminated his partnership at Meadville, sold his Virginia property to a younger brother, and returned to Aurora. After his marriage, he bought and rebuilt the family homestead at Aurora. In 1846, Louisville was chosen as an eligible place for a plow factory and soon became Mr. Avery's permanent home. He built a large factory there, but the civil war destroyed his business and his buildings were used by the government as a hospital. The cause of the Union was dear to his heart, his loyalty endangering his property if not his life—as was predicted. After the war, he formed a partnership with his sons and his son-in-law, John C. Coonley, under the firm name of B. F. Avery & Sons. The venture was very successful and the Avery plow lightened the work of the farmer north and south.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AVERY.

MRS. SUSAN LOOK AVERY.

In 1869, Mr. Avery, with his wife and four children, went to Europe where they remained two years. After his return, he lived in quiet happiness with his family, an ideal husband, father, and friend. He was able to surround his family with such treasures as wealth and refinement could procure. For years, a part of each summer has been spent by the family at Wyoming, N. Y. He was a Presbyterian of liberal views and an elder of the church. He was straightforward and honest, and was charitable both in giving money and in thinking no evil. He d. March 3, 1885, at Louisville, having nobly lived a life of lofty ideals.

Mr. Avery was peculiarly happy in his marriage. During the childhood and youth of her six children, Mrs. Avery attended closely to her domestic affairs. In her later years, she became interested in all the vital questions of the day. She is an ardent advocate of equal suffrage, municipal ownership of public utilities, the initiative and referendum, good government, free trade, the rights of labor, and is opposed to militarism, to war except in self-defense, and to capital punishment. She is an unusual combination of aristocrat and democrat. She founded the Women's Club of Louisville and the Susan Look Avery Club of Wyoming, N. Y. She is a woman of great dignity and commanding presence. She speaks impressively and with the ardor of conviction. She is always listened to with reverence and leaves behind her an aroused sense of civic duty and personal responsibility. She is the descendant of a long line of Puritan ancestors—Howes of Yarmouth, Mass., Loomis of Windsor, and Roberts and Look of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard. Her address is Mrs. Susan Look Avery, Louisville, Ky.

He took high rank in the academy; entered Wesleyan University (Middletown), which his father had helped to found; left in his fourth year to enter business life, but subsequently received the degree of A. M. He formed a partnership with his brother-in-law in the publishing and printing business, and the firm of Rand and Avery soon became known wherever books are read. Their business grew until they built and occupied the Franklin buildings, on the corner of Federal and Franklin streets, Boston. Here they had the largest and most complete printing establishment at that time in the United States. Among the thousands of books which bore the imprint of Rand and Avery may be mentioned, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, their first great work. School books, pamphlets, newspapers, magazines, advertisements for proprietary medicines, all issued from their presses, gave employment to hundreds of workmen, and swelled their pay-rolls to thousands of dollars weekly. In 1878, Mr. Avery and Mr. Rand retired from business. Mr. Avery was a trustee of the Franklin Savings Bank, a director in the Shawmut Fire Insurance Company, in the Newton and Watertown Gas Light Company, the European Globe Nail Company, and many other important corporations. He was a life member of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society, of the Bostonian Society of the Young Men's Christian Union, and, for many years, one of the standing committee of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's church. He was an extensive traveller both in the United States and abroad. He numbered among his friends many celebrated persons whose books were issued from the Rand-Avery presses. He was much interested in the "Averys of Groton," issued by Mr. Sweet, to whom he gave financial aid. He was beloved by all who knew him. His wife d. Jan. 29, 1891, at Boston; he d. years before the civil war he was a leading member of the North Carolina senate; later, he was famous as the colonel of Thomas's "Legion." His wife was the daughter of Robert Love, a captain under Shelby in the battle of King's Mountain. Robert Love founded Waynesville, N. C. The Dorcas Bell Love Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is named for his wife. His descendants in the different patriotic societies are very numerous.

Alphonso Calhoun Avery was graduated with the highest honors from the University of North Carolina in 1857; he assisted his father in the management of two large plantations until 1859; studied law with Chief-justice Pearson and was admitted to the bar in 1860. In 1861, he was made a lieutenant in the 6th N. C. regiment (Confederate); captain in 1862; major and assistant adjutant-general in December, 1862; served on the staff of Gen. D. H. Hill, and of Lieutenant-general John B. Hood; he afterwards commanded a North Carolina battalion until the end of the war; was appointed colonel but, owing to the close of the war, the commission was not issued. He was in many important battles; was captured by Gen. Stoneman in April, 1865, and was held a prisoner until August. He was a member of the North Carolina senate in 1866; member of the convention that revised the state constitution in 1875; elected judge of the superior court in 1878 for eight years, and again in 1886 for a like term; before his term expired, he was elected associate justice of the supreme court of the state. After his retirement from the bench, he quickly secured a lucrative and extensive practice. He was counsel for the Southern Railway Company in its contest with the state before the supreme court of the U. S. His alma mater conferred on him the degree of LL. D.; the same degree was conferred on him by Trinity College; he is a member of the Beta Theta fraternity. He is a Mason, an Odd Fellow, an honorary member of the Junior Order of Mechanics, an influential member of the Southern Historical Society, a prominent member of the Presbyterian Church, a Democrat of the Bryan school, and a popular and effective orator—the worthy descendant of an illustrious line. He lives at Morganton.
